ICEBERGS, VISIONS, AND MAPS!

by

Mary Laeger-Hagemeister

Come explore what ice bergs, visions, and maps have to do with cultural identity and diversity and the impact on successful business transactions. This experiential workshop will be a chance to learn more about your own cultural identity while discovering cultural patterns and styles from around the globe and mining gems for working effectively across cultural differences.

This session will be an opportunity to learn about yourself, learn with others, and identify resources available to help you to be more effective working with multicultural customers.

Participants will:

- Identify the impact of cultural proficiency and economic impact for businesses
- Identify value preferences and differences and how these relate to human interaction.
- Learn and practice different cultural communication styles
- Identify the mapping software of our minds
